For many years, Blockleys' pre-blended facing bricks service has helped countless architects and specifiers achieve their aesthetic ambitions. Whether matching or harmonising with an existing building or creating an original, multi coloured effect, the range of bricks available for the pre-blended service offers a striking and unique palette of colours. To further assist designers, Blockleys has now created a customised range of six different blends of facing bricks. Imaginatively put together, the blends achieve maximum impact and effect. And, for a perfect result – every time – the bricks can be laid, as they come, straight from the pack.

For individual projects, pre-blends can still be produced to create a special mix of colours to satisfy the requirements for a particular contract.

Of course, consistency of colour isn't the only thing you are assured of when choosing Blockleys' new range of blended facing bricks. Their superb technical properties – nil efflorescence, total frost resistance and all round durability – guarantee a consistently high quality too.
